

1                                    THE ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

2                    Disclosed is an electronic transaction recording system for accumulating data from 3 printer devices comprising a mobile access unit containing content which is to be printed, a 4 printer device which receives the content from the mobile access unit and prints the content in 5 response to a authorization process, a billing manager coupled to the printer device and the 6 mobile access unit for determining the amount of printer usage and associating a predetermined 7 amount of token values with the costs of printing and generates an accounting of usage based on 8 a predetermined measure of usage and a billing system for maintaining accounting records of 9 user and associating user account information with the predetermined measure of usage and 10 stores account information in an account records database.